TO ADVERTISERS.

The attention of Advertisers is respectfully drawn to the fact that a copy of the China Mail has for some time past been placed on board of every Steamer and sailing Vessel on arrival in this Harbour. Facilities which have recently been placed within the reach of Captains and Officers of Ships have resulted in a material increase amongst the shipping in port; and as special arrangements have been made to increase the usefulness of the Shipping List and to extend the circulation in the Bay these advantages will be at once apparent to Advertisers. Orders may be sent to

THE CHINA MAIL.

HONGKONG, PRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1876.

In the course of his letter which we published yesterday, "J. J. S.," with

At the British Hospital, Amey, on the 1st June, Mr J. Giffes, about 30 years resident at that port. Aged 54 years.

the object of showing that the Hongkong Government has not always exhibited willingness to rendite fugitive criminals to the Macao Authorities, dites the case of four Portuguese captured off the East Coast by a British Gunboat in 1867 and hanged in this Colony. The Hongkong Authorities," he says, "were deaf to the repeated requests of Senhar Coelho do Amaral and Consul Remedies to deliver up these unfortunate men, and they were tried here, without the assistance of counsel, for crimes committed out of Hongkong jurisdiction, and hanged. After all what is sauce for the goose is not sauce for the gander. Our correspondent does not state the fact, but we presume he thought it was so well known that it was unnecessary for him to do so, that these men were pirates. Now had "J. J. S. S." read a little of international law he would have known that It was not only the privilege of the Hongkong Government to try these offenders, but its duly. It has been always held that where oriminals are offenders against two or more countries. the tribunals of the one in which they are found must be first resorted to, instead of the culptits being rendited for trial to a pountry having concurrent jurisdiction, and the Government of this Colony was bound to try these pirates, who were offenders against all nations. Recent rendition treaties have, we believe, made it optional whether to surrender offenders

or not to a country having conductent

jurisdiction, but as no such treaty existed.

been justified in handing these pirates over to them for trial. If we had the Portuguese pirates here at the present time we should have to try them; it would not be a question of comity but of

Authorities have given up to the Government of this Colony fugitive offenders,

are those of culprits other than Postsguese. Alum, the bread-poisoner, was a Chinaman, Rustomjee, the swindler,

French boy Glatz was a Chinaman. There is no doubt as to the willingness of the Portuguese to rendite others than their own countrymen, but we have no security that they would be equally gion, it is indeed very fortunate for a ready to give up Portuguese offenders sovereign to have to lose his throne only who may take refuge at Macao, and for this reason it is that we urge the importance of rendition treaties existing between the two Colonies. We have, as we pointed out last night, had prac tical proof that the Portuguese would not exhibit the willingness to rendite their own countrymen that they have shown in handing over to us Chinese and others. When application was made to them for the rendition of they can earn a livelihood in a more ho-Collaco they did not excuss compliance nourable way. with the request on the ground that he was not within their jurisdiction, but that there was no treaty, and that otherwise they could not comply with the demand. From this it is sufficiently clear that the Macao Government not only would fail to exhibit the "prompt action" in renditing fugitive criminals of their own nationality for which our at £4 per ton, although the market had not correspondent gives them credit, but been open. The Glenfinlas was expected would fly to the non-existence of rendi- to leave on the 9th, and would be followed tion treaties as an excuse for shielding from justice the offenders who may take refuge on their soil. After having indicated the kind of answer received from the Macao Government when we applied | WE received for notice a day or two ago, for the rendition of Collago it is not at but have not been previously able to all necessary for our purpose-which was simply to show that we could not depend in the absence of a treaty on offenders escaping from this Colony to the Portuguese Peninsula being given up for punishment-to enquire into the accuracy or otherwise of the statement that that individual had taken refuge in Macso. All that we wish to observe on this point is that it was currently reported and believed at the time, as evidenced by the statements in the case of Marks at the Supreme Court, that Collaro was at Macao, and after all there is not much difference between his being sheltered from justice by Portuguese on this Island or forty miles away. Our correspondent intimates that he was concealed by certain Portuguese gentlemen in this Colony until he was shipped to Manila; he is welcome-to the benefit of the distinction if he thinks it is worth having. He must, however, under any circumstances, admit that the Portuguese were not lacking in willingness to shield the culprit from the law, and really this is the very point we have been endeavouring to make clear. It is perhaps as well that we should again repeat that we have not the slightest wish or intention in making these remarks on the question of rendition to cast any "slur on the Portuguese Government" or the Portuguese community in these parts. As we before stated we have no lack of respect for the Portuguese, who are one of the best-behaved nations in Europe. We think that reciprocal rendition treaties between the two local Governments would be as much or more to their interests, as to our own. and seeing that these treaties now exist between nearly all civilised nations, from the greatest to the least, it does seem singular that Portugal after having received such a practical inducement from the Authorities of this Colony, to enter into such a treaty, should have refused to do so. She surely does not doubt our capability or willingness to do strict justice to her people, nor is our code of law such as would furnish to her any ground of objection in the matter. Imprisonment for a longor short period according to the degree of the offence is certainly but the Just portion of swindlers, and we cannot understand those who would save from capital punishment the villain, who setting aside the laws of all nations, roves the seas, killing without merey, for the sake of a little gain, the helpless and inoffensive. At all events such punishments are the only sufficient means of keeping such offenders in check.

THE SPIRIT OF THE MORNING PRESS. The Press says that if the rumour that Too Toung Tang, the Chinese General cent to oppose Yatoob Beg, has been dut off and killed should prove correct, it is likely to lead to serious donsequences. All the news bitherto received from the seat of war has been of an uncaticiationy nature for the Chinese. The war is being gradually pushed into Ohina, and unless the Government makel a grand effort and sends prompt relief to the beffed forces, Ameer's army will soon be on the march to Pobling: The inveding army is immensely found was taken to the Hotel for him to superior to the Chinese troops, but, on other hand the Manchu Government might perhaps succeed in atousing a spirit of studio a slop bucket some days ago. -- Mr fanatical hatred attiong the people against the Mahomedane and feather it a religious war, it which case the Ameer would confronted with fresh and countless hordes. and ultimately be driven back by mere force of numbers. But it is far more prohable that the Peking Authorities will between the Government here and that endeavour to make speedy terms with elb at Micho at the time we should not have laccob Ben

Police Intelligence. (Before James Russell, Esq.)

Vancouver, Free Trade, Korsor,

June 9, 1878. Li Afong, a coolie belonging to the Hongkong Hotel, was charged with stealing a gold stud. P. C. Thos. Gordon, No. 66. stated that on the morning of the 4th, he was tent by Inspector Thomson to the Hotel to make inquiry about a watch that had been stolen during the night. He found that the prisoner was the only person who had liberty to leave the Hotel during the morning, and who had access to the room of the gentleman who jost the watch. The Constable searched the pri- > soners box, and afterwards went to his house in Bridges Street. He found there the gold stud produced in a bed. There was no trace of the lost watch. The Constable had learnt that the gentleman had lost stude some time before, and the stud identify. The gentleman referred to was Mr Robb, and he identified the stud. The defendant here stated that he picked up the D. Robb stated that he was acting inspector of Machinery at H. M. Naval Yard, and was living at the Hotel. On Sunday b. morning (4th) when he got up about } past d, he went to see the time, and discovered that he had lost his watch, a silver huntaing lover, maker Jones of London. It walk hung up on Saturday night about 19 o'clock when he went to bed. The prisoner and the boys who attended on the witness had access to the room, and the prisoner were suspected by the Compredute. This was

OBSTRUCTING POLICE.

Chow Achu, described as a merchant, was charged with obstructing P. C. 642 Sultan Malek under the following circum stances. Complainant was on duty at the Canton Steamer Wharf. The passengers were-landing at 4.30 pm. and the defendant wanted to force his way into the wharf, but the Constable would not let him in. He then said "Don't you know me!" The Constable replied "No." He said "I'll take your number and report you." still pressed forward and the Constable kept him back. Thereupon the Constable took him into custody. The defendant, who looked a respectable man, said he want a ed to get in to look after his family who were coming in the steamer. Discharged.

CUTTING AND WOUNDING. Ching Akwong, coolie at the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, and Ching Aping, watchman to Messra Douglas Lapraik & Co., were again brought up on remand, to answer the above charge. Inspector Thomson stated that on the 5th May the first prisoner was brought to the Charge Room by Mr Dougal, accountant of the Chartered Bank, and charged with atabbing a fellow servant with the knife produced: Witness sent Sergeant Lindsay down to make enquiries, and the wounded man was taken to Hospital. Lemuel Yung was examined. He stated that he was at present out of employment. He had been a student in America for 12 years. He returned to Hongkong by the Oceanic. He was a native of Macao, and the Compradore of the Bank was his uncle, or rather, a sort of clansman. On the morning of the 5th, he was in the Bank, and saw the first prisoner had a fight with the office boy, and the second prisoner was assisting the first. Witness seized the second prisoner and pulled him off. He then tried to pull off the first. He saw the first strike the office boy a blow with something, which drew blood. Another coolie came and pulled the first prisoner away. Witness then made a report to Mr Dougal who took the first prisoner to the Station. -Tsoi Akum, an office boy in the Bank stated that the first prisoner was a Bank coolie, and the second, a watchman to h easra Douglas Lapraik & Co. About three weeks ago, witness told the first prisoner to take a lamp to Mr Forrest's—the manager-house. This was half-past seven o'clock p.m., and the prisoner pretended to be asleep, and next morning, witness reported it to the compradore. The prisoner knew that he had been reported, and was very angry with witness for that. He said he had given him trouble. been angry with him ever since. On the morning of the 4th, before witness got up, the prisoner burst into witness room. Witness was lying on a rattan sofa, and both prisoners came in, and the first prisoner having a knife in his hand, gave witness a blow on the left shoulder. He said nothing before he struck the blow witness was in a reclining posture at Lemuel Yung then came in and took the second prisoner away.t Yung So also came and pulled the firs prisoner avay. The broken blade of the knife with which witness was cut was picked up on the floor. Mr Dougal came and the prisoners were given into custody. He had no quarrel with the prisoner before he reported him. The prisoner had said "You are too saucy, I'll stab you." He had said so three or four times. The compradore did nothing to the first prisoner so far as witness knew. Witness had been nine years in the service of the bank. The second prisoner was the paternal uncle of the first defendant, and witness had never accused the prisoner of stealing postage stamps. — A watchman named Yung So corroborated the witness statement so far as it related to the stabbing, which he did not see, nor the knife produced. - Mr Wil iam Dougal, acting accountant in the bank, proved th t a report was made to him of a fight and he went down. He saw the office boy bleeding freely from the left shoulder. He then gave prisoner into the custody of P. C. 73 James Shaw. -P. C. Shaw proved the arrest of the first prisoner .- Dr C. J. Wharry Superintendent of the Government Civil Hospital, testified to the admission of the office-boy, who was suffering from a punctured wound behind the left shoulder. It was about 1 or 12 inches wide and from 2 to 8 inches deep. There was a slight superficial cut on the back of the left upper arm, The right eye was blackened. There had been a good deal of bleeding, and the wound was in a dangerous region. The man was, however, out of danger, but was my yet discharged from Hospital .- After her Governor of Macao, and found guilty with-thre or four months ago, the office boy charged him with having told some body that he, the office boy, had stolen some stamps. He said "I will beat you," but prisoner said nothing except that he had never told anything to anybody. A few days afterwards, the prisoner's morquito curtain, a blanket and some clothing were burned with some soid. He believed it was the office boy who did it. On the might of the 4th the office boy was looking out for him, and he was heard to say that he would stab the brisoner, who then went away from the house and returned the next morning. The 2nd prisoner passed his door and the first informed him of this. The 2nd prisoner then went to the Compradore, who went to the office boy's room and speke to him about his threat. ### CORRESPONDENCE.

RENDITION OF CRIMINALS.

The following letter came to hand after our leading, article on the subject was wri We shall have a few words to say regard to this communication to morow.

To the Editor of the "OHINA MAIL."

Hongkong, 9th June, 1876. Sir, - The importance of the above question will, I hope, be sufficient apology for my again troubling you upon it. I have never attributed to you any intention to be sarcastic at the expense of the Portuguese at Macao or anywhere else." Your testimo ny that a "more orderly, and peaceable peo ple could not be found in the East," will not be unappreciated. These, however, are personal or extraneous matters; not bearing on the great question which has been opened. The common principles of justice, the re gardfor progress and civilization, and interna tional courtesy alike forbid any country permitting its territories to be made a place of refuge for crimes committed in anoth Any power which would thus shelter a cri minal would be justly condemned. that is, practically, the complaint against Portugal. A devoted though humble subject of that country, I shall be pardoned for being jealous of her honor, and for endeavouring to place her position and action in proper light before the community of th friendly Colony in which it is my privilege

The Portuguese authorities have no desire to screen fugitive criminals. It is, as I have already shown, their practice, when asked, to surrender them. No formal treaty is necessary for this purpose, and there are reasons why an extradition treaty cannot sometimes be made. Portugal, having abolished capital punishment, feels that she cannot make such a treaty with a Power which retains it : because the Treaty and her laws would be antagonistic. It will be sen that the expediency of death punishment has a not unimportant bearing on the matter; but the question is too wide for discussion here. Still, I may be permitted to remark that her views are shared by an influential party in England; indeed, as oivilization advances, human life is held more sacred, and gradually the penalty of death has been erased from the statute books of Europe, till it remains, and in some countries only, as the punishment for the greatest crime. The position of Portugal, in being unwilling to enter into extradition treaties, if peculiar, is not inconsistent. But what I wish to point out is, that the absence of such treaties has never prevented the rendition of criminals, nor made her territories places of refuge from justice. What in case of a treaty could be demanded as right, is now granted as a friendly The Masao authorities have never, I lieve, when asked by the Governor of Hong kong or Representative of other civilize Power, refused to surrender a oriminal. have already pointed out several cases which fugitives have been given up. Indeed, when the request is made by the authority of a civilized Power, even proof of the alleged crime is not needed, (contrary to the requirements in like cases in Hongkong), It is, however, imputed that whilst the Macao authorities are ready to deliver up other than Portuguese offenders, they are not willing to surrender their own subjects to answer for crimes committed in other jurisdictions. Now, since the settlement of this Colony, I believe there have been but six cases where Portuguese have committed orimes and then fled, or have been thought to have fled, to Macao. That of Collaco, the last, was the only one in which a request was made for rendition. You say you have strong reasons for questioning the assertion that Collaco did not go to Macao, but if the evidence of those who went with him to Manila can be believed, there is much ently, to do as they please. stronger ground in its support. However, it appears that the authorities here did apply to the Governor of Macao for his rendition. What was the answer? Unfortunately. neither the official Portuguese reply nor its English translation has been published You say you have the best authority for stating that the reply was "that there was no treaty and that otherwise a compliance with the request was impracticable." In my opinion, that is very far from "sufficient for present purposes." The Delphian cracle hard ly ever gave a more uncertain sound ; and it would not be easy to frame a more ambiguous sentence. It may mean that the request could not be complied with because there was no extradition treaty; or, what is pliance. For instance, Colface not being at Macao will be a good reason for compliance being "impracticable." Many and serious misunderstandings have arisen from ignorant translations and care less use of language. When about ten years ago, four Portuguese, charged with piracy, instead of being handed over to the authorities of their own nation were trie and executed here—tried here against the repeated request for their rendition by the but I maintain that no unwillingness has ever been shown to surrender criminals. is not the policy, it is not the interest, nor is it the desire of Portugal to shelter offenders, be they the subjects of foreign Powers or her own. Fugitives from Justice find no protection beneath her flag; and in the future, as in the past, requests for the rendition of oriminals will, have no doubt, be courtectisly and promptly acceded to, the absence of extradition treaty nowithstand ing .-- Your obedient Servant.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

Even if a gold coinage should be adopted by India, people must not hope that every rupee they possess will at once become exchangeable for two shillings at home. However the change may be managed, there will be a loss, difficult to estimate in advance, but certain to be great for the country to bear. For if the actual current exchangeable value of the rupes at the time when gold might be introduced, were taken as the rate at which the value should thenceforward be stereotyped in gold, the loss to be borne by Government would still be the subject will follow our meaning, but the nature of this loss may not be apparent at once to any one. It would arise from the great depreciation in the value of silver, beyond any depreciation that may have previously been established, that must follow on the adoption of gold coin in India. From the moment at which Government declares that it will coin no more silver rupees, the flow of silver to the East is practically stopped. The effect of that stoppage on the European markets would be very great, but the depreciation is not even limited to that effect. The Government would simultaneously have to undertake an enormous operation, which would aggravate the evil to a greater extent than ever. It would have to take back the rupees now in circulation, and issue gold coin in exchange. Some people may imagine that the existing rupees could still be left in circulation as a subsidiary coinage, but a very small number compared with that now in circulation would suffice for the fractional transactions of the country. I has been estimated that no more than 20 millions sterling would be required for this purpose, while the total quantity of rupees in existence has been roughly estimated at Jan. 17, Alex. McNeil, from Cardiff to 150 or 160 millions sterling. The difference between these two amounts might be expected to pour back on to the hands of the Government, and the Government would have to offer these vast amounts for sale in face of the depreciation due to the causes already at work. It is impossible to say Treaty-making is an exceedingly delicate down to what level the value of Bilver business, and it sometimes happens that wou'd not fall. It will be seen that we are when there are several countries having by no means underrating the serious nature

THE WAY WE LIVE HERE. The sudden rush of hot weather-inconvenient, but not unhealthy-suggests th idea how very much more severely people suffer from the heat than they have any reason to.
